PETALING JAYA: The strong winds and stormy conditions in the South China Sea and along the East Coast of the Peninsula are expected to continue until Sunday.

A Meteorological Services Department statement said waves in the South China Sea were expected to be as high as five meters.

As for Sabah, the West Coast and the interior, heavy rains are expected to continue until Sunday.

South-east Pahang and Johor will experience moderately heavy rains, and Negri Sembilan and Malacca intermittent rain until the weekend.

"However, there has been less rainfall than expected in Kelantan and Terengganu," the statement said.
